DETAILED ACTION

Claim(s) 1-3 is/are pending.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Nagano et al. (JP 58-067854).

Regarding claims 1-2, Nagano teaches (pages 1-3) a nickel alloy having excellent resistance to intergranular stress corrosion cracking including, by mass %, C: up to 0.04%; Si: up to 1.0%; Mn: up to 1.0%; P: up to 0.03%; S: up to 0.005%; Cr: 15 to 35%; Ni: 50 to 80%; Al: up to 0.50%; Ti: 0.2 to 1.0%; and the balance Fe and impurities, which overlaps with the claimed ranges, which is prima facie evidence of obviousness. See MPEP 2144.05 I. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to select the desired amount of each of the elements from the ranges disclosed by Nagano because Nagano teaches the same utility throughout the disclosed ranges.

Still regarding claims 1-2, the Examiner asserts that the alloy of Nagano would inherently have a low angle boundary rate of 4% or more as for the grain boundaries, because Nagano teaches substantially the same composition and substantially the same processing (i.e. large amount of cold working followed by low temperature annealing - see Table 2). See MPEP 2112.01 I.

Regarding claim 3, Nagano does not necessitate adding any Co, Cu or V.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-3 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Michael P. Alexander whose telephone number is 571-272-8558. The examiner can normally be reached on M-F 8:30-4:30.
